

Bob and Sally were talking about some cookies that Bob / Sally / their classmate Tom had baked.

Bob: (I didn't get to taste my own / your / Tom's cookies.)

How did you like the cookies?

Sally: They tasted good/okay/bad.

Was Sally's goal to be: truthful? polite? both?

Conditioning on whether Bob knows how the cookies taste

(if Bob doesn't know,

for Bob's own: bias toward being polite

for others: bias toward being less polite/telling the truth)

cake - too salty
bucket - water is spilling
drawing - messy/sloppy
cookies - burned
